

April 2013 - Updates

12 April 2013

Last Updated 15 April 2013

River Rats Calendar has completely sold out and the income figure has gone over the ten thousand euro mark. This has been an outstanding project and the result is way above expectations. The handover of funds to the Irish Cancer society will occur on May 18th at 5pm in the Waterways Ireland Visitor Centre, Grand Canal Docks. This will be a memorable occasion so don't miss it.

The latest in the series of Labour History on Irish Waterways (Snippets 9), has just arrived and can be viewed here,

The Royal Canal event is fast drawing to a conclusion and we would like to thank the communities and individuals along the route who have given assistance to the fleet. The story of the trip is of course being told on our home page but there are also some excellent photos on our Facebook page. Our long time friend A.J. Vosse has some good coverage in his hometown area, Kilcock, and it is well worth a peek at his site

[ouchmybackhurts.wordpress.com]

The story can also be followed on the IWA forum here and also at.

Â

Members should also be preparing for a Summer event - HBA 13 @ Athlone, which is our first in this important waterways town. Date is from 12th to 18th of August and not to be missed. Considerable groundwork has been put in place and the event organisers are at this point looking for skippers to confirm their attendance.

Â